Girl, 9, Hit; St. Louis Driver Held

Accident Occurs Near Cardington; In Serious Condition

Frances Shoemaker, nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Shoemaker, of near Cardington, is reported in serious condition at Morrow County Hospital, Mt. Gilead, after being struck by a car as she alighted from a school bus Friday afternoon.

She suffered a brain concussion, possible skull fracture, fractured pelvis, fractured right leg and dislocated right hip.

Driver of the car, William French Jr., 27, of St. Louis, Mo., is held at Morrow County Jail on an open charge by County Prosecutor Gail B. Weller, pending outcome of the child's condition.

French was arrested by state highway patrolmen from the Marion sub-station for passing a school bus which had stopped to discharge passengers.

The accident occurred at 4:05 p.m. on Route 42, one mile south of Cardington as the southbound school bus, driven by Owen Blowers, 60, of Cardington, stopped to discharge the Shoemaker child.

She was crossing the highway when the oncoming French car struck her.

She was struck by the grille and hood of the car and thrown several feet into the air, patrolmen said. A Curl ambulance of Cardington took the child to the Morrow County Hospital.

Have as Many Facilities as Children

Adults Not Forgotten In New YMCA Building

This is one of a series of articles dealing with the approaching fund campaign for the new Marion YMCA. The drive for $148,500 will get under way Monday and will continue for one week.

Most persons have the mistaken idea that the YMCA operates only as a youth agency for people of high school age or under. Actually a check of Y records across the country shows that more adults use Y facilities than do youths.

Of a necessity in the present Marion YMCA, the emphasis is placed on youth. Lack of space and facilities limit the programming of adult activities.

However, in planning the new building, members of the building committee have taken into consideration the need for adult programs and as a result facilities for people above school age equal those for youths in the new YMCA building.

In the present building one lobby serves as a catch-all for all age groups.

In the new building, separate lobbies will be available for youths and for adults. Actually the building is divided in the center, one-half for youths and one-half for adults. Locker and shower room space is equal to that allotted the youth. Five specific club rooms will be available for adult groups and community functions.

The programs for adults will not be limited to city residents. The Y facilities will be available to the community at large. Several activities are on a membership basis but facilities are available for non-member groups at any time.

Special emphasis is being placed on the adult programming. The building is planned for adult participation on a large scale similar to associations in larger cities. Programs for adults over and above those in the present building, will include physical education and aquatic classes, social, recreational and educational programs.

The health club and swimming pool will be available for adult use at regular periods. The health center, equipped with massage room, steam bath, etc., while planned as a convenience for business men, will be open to women at regular times.

The swimming pool will be operated on a full schedule to accommodate all age groups. Y officials at present plan a complete swimming schedule. Periods will be held for boys, for girls, for women and for men. Others will

MARILYN LOUISE BLASS

YMCA Hires 1st Woman's Secretary

For the first time in its history, the Marion YMCA today announced the hiring of a full-time woman's secretary.

She is Miss Marilyn Louise Blass of Hamburg, N. Y. She will serve as program director for girls and women at the new YMCA building on E. Church St. The appointment was made necessary by the expanded facilities for women and girls in the new building.

Miss Blass will assume her new position July 6. She will be in charge of physical education programs and club programs for women and girls.

A graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University, she holds a bachelor of science degree in sociology and religion. Her prior experience in social work includes working at a Methodist Church camp at Silver Lake, N. Y., at the Tabor Farms in Michigan and at the Yonkers, N. Y., YWCA.

She will be the first professional woman's YMCA worker in Marion.

Halt Truce Negotiations For 3 Days

Allies Ask Recess; "Administrative" Reasons Are Cited

MUNSAN (AP)—The Korean armistice talks recessed until Wednesday at Allied insistence today after another stormy exchange over U. N. and Communist proposals to end the long prisoner exchange deadlock.

The Communists angrily accused U. N. negotiators of destroying the "basis" of the negotiations and called on them to "withdraw this absurd proposal."

Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison Jr. charged the Reds with trying "to coerce unwilling prisoners to return to unwanted masters."

Harrison said he asked for the three-day recess for administrative reasons. He declined to elaborate.

Observers pointed out the recess would provide an opportunity for top-level conferences at a time when criticism of the U. S. position is building up among friendly nations.

The U. S. State Department Friday night took the unusual step of issuing a formal statement defending the "fundamental humanitarian principle" of letting prisoners of the Korean war choose whether they will go home.

There can be no compromise, the State Department said in the statement apparently aimed at critics at home and abroad.

The department said every possibility for an honorable truce will be explored, but there can be no agreement which would condemn some prisoners to "indefinite captivity."

India, Britain and Canada all have brought pressure on the U. S.

Newsman's Wife Overjoyed

Mrs. Oatis Delighted, Grateful, Exhausted

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Roused early today to be told her husband was at last free, Mrs. Laurbelle Oatis said she was "grateful, delighted and exhausted."

Before going to bed she had received official word that Antonin Zapotocky, new president of Czechoslovakia, had granted a pardon to her husband, William Oatis.

Oatis, Associated Press bureau chief in Prague, was freed after 25 months imprisonment. He still had eight years remaining on a 10-year term imposed on espionage charges. The U. S. State Department called the charges and conviction a travesty.

Told this morning her husband had been released and was in Free West Germany, Mrs. Oatis could at first find no words. She had been up late talking with newsmen and friends. She said it was too early to make any plans.

Her first reaction had been cautious.

"One grows to expect bad news in a situation like this," she said. "when good news comes you just don't know how to react."

"This thing has been so fantastic from the start," she told newsmen, "I still can't make myself believe he's coming home."

It has been almost 35 months since the two saw each other in London. He left for his new assignment in Prague, she returned home for a visit with her family.

Since then, the 29-year-old wife of the newsmen has tried to lead what she describes as "a normal life in this abnormal situation." She has worked since shortly after her return as a copywriter in the advertising department of a St. Paul department store.

She has made seven trips to Washington and New York since her husband was imprisoned to "talk face to face" with State Department and Associated Press officials.

from The Associated Press of her husband's pardon. Within a half hour, the living room of the small apartment where she lives with her mother was filled with newsmen.

"This is a story that William would like to be covering himself," she smilingly told the reporters and photographers.

A letter that Mrs. Oatis had written to the Czech President appealing for the release of her husband was credited with being instrumental in getting the pardon. "If that's the case," she said, "I am of course more than happy that it was written." She said it was the only letter she had sent to any government behind the Iron Curtain.

McCarthy Hammers At U.S. Allies

Proposes U.S. Cut U.N. Funds To Equal Allied Aid in Korea

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) fired another blast at America's allies today with a proposal aimed at making them take over more of the costs of the Korean war.

The Wisconsin senator said he has instructed his staff to draft an amendment, to the pending State Department appropriations bill, designed to pare the proposed 30-million dollar American share of operating United Nations agencies.

As explained by McCarthy, who is engaged in a transatlantic word battle with British leaders, the amendment would:

Crosses Iron Curtain Into Germany

Moscow Says Act Prompted by Wife's Plea for Release

The Associated Press

William N. Oatis came back to freedom today. The AP correspondent, who went to jail because he wrote the truth from Czechoslovakia, was released on a pardon after serving two years of a 10-year sentence.

U. S. Embassy officials in Prague promptly drove the reporter to the frontier, and he reached Waidhaus, Germany, this afternoon. He was expected to return within a few days to the United States for a reunion with his wife, whose poignant appeal to Czech authorities was credited by Moscow as being instrumental in bringing about the pardon.

Oatis, an Indianan now 39 years old, was sentenced by a Prague court in 1951 on charges of espionage after a trial the U. S. government quickly labeled as a travesty of justice.

Mrs. Oatis, at her home in St. Paul, Minn., meanwhile was "grateful, delighted and exhausted." She had been up most of the night awaiting further details, after the first bare announcement that Czech authorities were giving her husband a pardon.

The appeal she sent last November to Klement Gottwald, then president of Czechoslovakia, was disclosed Friday night when the news of the pardon became known. She put her heart into the 250-word letter.

"Surely," she said, "you must heed a simple plea for mercy and put an end to this bitterly unhappy situation in which my husband William and I are entrapped."

Investigate Report Reserve Training Needs Overhaul

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Armed Services Committee has launched an investigation into whether the nation's two million military reservists are being fairly treated and adequately trained.

A subcommittee will hold open hearings soon as a result of what Rep. Leroy Johnson (R-Calif.) said was a "host of complaints" that reserve programs are being poorly administered.

Rep. Brooks of Louisiana, ranking Democratic member, said in a separate interview the investigation may prompt congressional recommendations to "put some muscle" into some aspects of the reserve program.

But the congressmen said their mail has produced these, among other complaints.

1. Some reservists draw pay for what is supposed to be an evening's training but spend their time playing cards because there is no training program.

2. Many regular officers assigned to oversee reserve programs are merely awaiting retirement and have little interest in their jobs.

3. Veterans back from Korea have no assurance they will be classified properly to avoid immediate recall to emergency duty.

Included in the program will be brief remarks by the Rev. Ashley Wilkes Booth of Central Christian Church representing the Protestant faith and the Very Rev. Wm. J. Spickerman, V.F., representing the Catholic faith.

Ben Lenavitt, a member of the board of trustees of the Congregation of Israel, will also give a short talk reviewing the history of the congregation in Marion and will introduce the present officers.

The invocation will be by Rabbi Norman Kahan of Temple Beth-El, Lima and a scripture reading will be given by Rabbi Victor Weissberg of Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati.

Allan Tarshish of Columbus will sing "Halleluiah" and the program will conclude with the benediction by Max Birnbaum.

Invitation To Public

All residents and members of the clergy of Marion are cordially invited to attend the ceremonies, Salzman said.

The building contractor, Leo Yassenoff of Columbus, will be here for the occasion.

Officers of the Congregation of Israel in addition to Freed as president are: Abe Schoen, first vice president; Dr. M. C. Smally, second vice president; Samuel Babich secretary; and Lou J. Teitlebaum, treasurer.

Trustees are Mrs. Lester Huhn, Harry Lurye, Lenavitt, Joseph Halberstein, Salzman, Dr. M. M. Weinbaum, and Albert Hamburg.

Golf Clubs, Money Taken In Breakin

Woods, Irons Stolen, Thieves Ignore Left-Handed Set

Nearly $500 worth of golfing equipment was taken from the Mar-o-Del Golf Course clubhouse between 5:30 p.m. Friday and around 7:30 this morning, it was reported to the Marion County sheriff's office.

Included in the list of stolen equipment were three sets of woods valued at $147, and four sets of irons valued at $165. Marion Hinklin and Ray Augenstein operators, of the course told the sheriff's office.

Left in the clubhouse was one set of left-handed clubs, which led the operators to believe that the seven right-handed sets were taken by someone acquainted with golfing.

Other items taken from the clubhouse were a cigarette lighter valued at $12, two golf bags valued at $22, four and one-half dozen golf balls valued at $62, two sets of club covers valued at $12, four pairs of golf gloves valued at $13, and tees valued at $1.

Also taken was about $30 from the cash register, and $10 from a fund box.

Entrance to the clubhouse was gained by a west window, which had been pried open, the sheriff's office report indicated. A back door to the north of the clubhouse was discovered ajar this morning by Hinklin, who then saw that the equipment was missing and notified the sheriff's office, which is investigating the break-in.

Dickey Family Follows Suit, All Have Mumps

When one member of the Lester L. Dickey family becomes ill, the others, not to be outdone, seem to manage to acquire the same illness.

This has happened twice in the last year in the Dickey household at 631 Windsor St.

At the present time Mr. and Mrs. Dickey and their three children have the mumps.

The 5-year-old daughter, Anne, was the first to have the mumps, only a light case. About a week later, both Mr. and Mrs. Dickey, their son David, 7, and another daughter, Marilyn, 1, came down with the mumps. This was a little more than a week ago. Mrs. Dickey's mother, Mrs. Ernest Pavay, who was here at the time Anne had them, went to Painesville shortly after that to visit and she now has the mumps.

Mr. Dickey said they are nearly over them and he expects to return to his office Monday. He is superintendent of city schools. Within the last year, the five of them had the flu at the same time.

Dayton Boy Dead, Second Critical, Hit-Skip Sought

CINCINNATI (AP)—Two teen-aged boys, one dead and the other injured critically were found today in a clump of bushes along U. S. 25, two miles north of Sharonville in Butler County.

Police said the youths, riding bicycles, apparently had been hit some time during the night by a hit-and-run motorist.

The dead boy was identified as Joe Shell, about 18, of Dayton. The other boy was listed as Sammy Blackburn, about 14, also of Dayton.

He was reported as "very critical."

Shortly after the boys were found by a motorist, Hamilton County police said the Ohio Highway Patrol was seeking a green Ford which was reported to have a damaged right front fender and headlight and with a hubcap missing.

Harrison refused to comment on the criticism.

Communist negotiators argued vehemently for their plan to turn over to a five-nation commission for four months the 48,500 North Korean and Chinese prisoners who refuse to go home. During this period the Reds would explain matters to them. The future of those who still refuse repatriation would be decided at a post-armistice political conference.

3-Day Event Opens at Coliseum

Antiques Show and Sale Presents Notable Exhibits

By DELORES McCLURE

Antique enthusiasts and possibly a few of the more curious Marionites strolled from booth to booth at the Antiques Show and Sale on its opening day, Friday, at the Veterans Memorial Coliseum. An attendance of 600 during the afternoon and evening hours was estimated.

The antique show, a new venture for the Marion County Federation of Women's Clubs, continues tonight and Sunday from 1 to 10 p.m.

Among the antiques featured at the show are some 28 displays representing four states, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois and New York. Exhibits range from antique glassware, furniture, hooked rugs, looms, metal ware, firearms, coins and stamps to dolls.

Some Outstanding Displays

The more unusual displays include several pieces of Gouda Dutch dishes, 1740-1780, early American place settings of Queen Anne and Windsor furniture, Wheeling peach blow dishes, wax and wooden dolls and a papier-mache mechanical doll, exhibited by Thelma Harding of Newcomerstown, O.

Thomas' Antiques of Marion features a Bennington hound pitcher, made in Bennington, Vt., in 1849, by Newton and Fenton, and a pitcher made in England in 1837, decorated in China and transported back to England where it was sold.

Dail McNew of Mansfield has a 150-year-old spice box, while Gwen's Antique Shop of Elyria features whale oil lamps dating back 100 years.

One of the most attractive antiques featured in the show, is a fireside seat made of an old-

"The trips were for my own satisfaction—they gave me something to look forward to," she said. "I'm extremely grateful to those in the State Department and The Associated Press who have been so helpful and understanding during these many trying months. I'm sure that William is as pleased and grateful as I am at this very wonderful outcome."

Mrs. Oatis has received six letters from her husband since he was put behind bars. She described the letters as "newsy and cheerful, not too personal." The last letter, dated April 1, said he had been writing a song a day but was running out of ideas.

Plump, brown-eyed Mrs. Oatis had just gotten home from work when she received the first word

1. Reduce the U. S. contribution for U. N. operating expenses to the percentage level of other nations participation in Korean war financing, and

2. Thereby induce other nations who are not, in McCarthy's view, contributing enough to the Korean war effort, to step up their support of regular U. N. activities as a sort of offset.

"We have been contributing 95 per cent of the money and men for the Korean war," McCarthy said in an interview. "If we cut our U. N. contributions to the 5 per cent the other nations have been putting up in Korea, maybe we can get a little more financial cooperation out of them."

The U. S. now is putting up 35 per cent of the cost of operating eight U. N. organizations, and also is contributing to 21 related international groups. The House Appropriations Committee said in its report on the $1,143,000,000 State Department bill that commitments had been made to cut future U. S. contributions to 33 1-3 per cent.

McCarthy's new move came as Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ), a foreign relations committee member, predicted the Communists eventually will accept the U. N. proposals for handling Korean prisoners of war and also "probably the unification of Korea."

But, Smith said:

"The final price will be admission of Red China to the United Nations and a seat on the Security Council."

That is the real danger. Admission of Communist China to the U. N. would mean the eventual disappearance of all Asia behind the Iron Curtain.

A statement by Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India, endorsing the most recent Communist proposal for the repatriation of prisoners of war, drew caustic dissent from some senators, among them Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) and Sen. Potter (R-Mich.).

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said the various statements of the transatlantic debate indicate to him there ought to be an immediate meeting of the free world's foreign ministers. Such a meeting, he said, should aim at "a new harmony which will place our minor disagreements in their proper perspective."

The disagreements were apparent in the crossfire of statements by Atlee and other British Labor party leaders, Nehru and members of Congress, as well as an announced move by India's delegate to the United Nations.

Atlee said in Parliament Tuesday that some elements in the U. S. really did not want peace, that Congress hampered America's executive branch and it was sometimes hard to tell whether President Eisenhower or McCarthy had more power in foreign policy matters.

"We married because we wanted to spend our lives together. Yet the days go by, one after another, and so does the time we would be spending together. We can never regain what has already been lost during this past two and a half years, but I continue to hope and pray . . ."

There was no explanation why the Prague officials waited exactly six months to act on the letter, but in the meantime Gottwald died and Antonin Zapotocky became President of Czechoslovakia. In the meantime, also, Moscow launched a "peace offensive," and persuaded North Korean authorities to release groups of American, British and French civilians who had been seized in Korea at the start of the war there.

It is now almost three years since Mrs. Oatis saw her husband. That was four months after she and the reporter from Marion, Ind., were married. Oatis is now 39. A U. S. official permitted to visit him last October reported him in apparent good health.

"I still can't make myself believe it," Mrs. Oatis said last night at her St. Paul (Minn.) home. "Is there any when or how?"

Walter Bedell Smith, U. S. undersecretary of state, explained details were still to come, and Laurabelle Oatis observed:

"I'm so very, very grateful." Moscow's announcement was printed on the foreign news page of Pravda. It said:

"The Czechoslovak News Agency reports that by a decision of the Czechoslovak Republic William Oatis has been amnestied. Oatis is a citizen of the United States and a former correspondent of the Associated Press in Prague. William Oatis on July 4, 1951, was exposed by the State Court in Prague for espionage and other anti-state activities and was sentenced to deprivation of freedom for 10 years."

"In November, 1952, the wife of the sentenced person, L. Oatis, through the Czechoslovak Embassy in Washington, sent a letter to the president of the Czechoslovak Republic with a request for pardoning W. Oatis. As stated in the report of the Czechoslovak News Agency, William N. Oatis came back to freedom today and said "I feel great" despite two years in a Prague prison.

He was asked at the Czech-German border how he had been treated in the hands of the Czech authorities.

"Well, they treated me pretty good," but it's great to be out," Oatis responded. The lanky correspondent was pale.

If We Never Meet Again

A composer's way of saying goodbye

Every seat in the auditorium was filled. People stood in the aisles. As theater people say, "they were hanging from the rafters." And the rafters rang with song after song from the pen of one of America's foremost gospel song writers. "I'd Rather Be An Old-Time Christian," "Jesus, Hold My Hand," "Till Meet You In The Morning," "I've Found A Hiding Place" and no less than 20 others equally as well known.

The master of ceremonies gave a brief sketch of the composer's life. A poor Oklahoma farm boy who attended his first "singing school" when he was 15 years old, wrote his first song soon thereafter and climbed steadily to the front ranks of present day gospel song writers. Came the big moment. Albert E. Brumley himself was present and would come to the platform to lead in the singing of one of his own songs.

The M. C. paused. There were no footsteps. He looked to his left. Brumley was not there. He looked to the right. Still no appearance of the composer. Anxiously, the audience waited. Then someone discovered the modest composer behind an upright piano where he had taken a seat to avoid public notice. Before the footlights, Brumley said he guessed he should sing "I've Found A Hiding Place" and the rafters rang again.

Quiet, modest, retiring Albert E. Brumley. He dreaded the close of every program. But it had been that way in Tulsa, Shreveport, Atlanta, Dallas, Little Rock, St. Louis and hundreds of communities across the country. He had appeared at song gatherings for 20 years but he always dreaded the last number because, for most of the people, he knew he would never see them again "this side of heaven" and he was hard put for words to tell them "Good-bye."

"It does something to you," Brumley says, "when people sing your songs for two hours and then hundreds of them come down front to shake your hand. There are the dear old souls with tears in their eyes who tell you how they love to sing "I Dreamed I Met Mother and Daddy." There are those who have lost loved ones and they want to talk about "Till Meet You In The Morning."

So Albert Brumley devised a unique way of telling his audiences "Good-bye." He wrote this song just to sing at the close of concerts and "all day singings" but it became so popular it was soon published in sheet form and even translated in several foreign countries.

Soon we'll come to the end of life's journey
And perhaps we'll never meet any more,
Till we gather in heaven's bright city
Far away on that beautiful shore.

O so often we're parted with sorrow,
Benedictions often quicken our pain,
But we never shall sorrow in heaven,
God be with you till we meet again.

O they say we shall meet by the river,
Where no storm could ever darken the sky,
And they say we'll be happy in heaven
In the wonderful sweet by and by.

(Chorus)
If we never meet again this side of heaven
As we struggle thru this world and its strife,
There's another meeting place somewhere in heaven
By the side of the river of life;

Where the charming roses bloom forever,
And where separations come no more,
If we never meet again this side of heaven
I will meet you on that beautiful shore.

High Cost of Sinning

A Sermonette

By THE REV. J. PAUL GOEBEL
Pastor of First Evangelical and Reformed Church

Text: "The way of the transgressor is hard." Proverbs 13:15

Serving God costs a man something. He pays in terms of self-discipline, self-denial, self-sacrifice, self-surrender. But what many a man fails to realize is that serving the devil costs infinitely more. The devil drives a hard bargain, and those who dicker with him always lose. As Lowell puts it: "At the devil's booth are all things sold, Each ounce of dross costs its ounce of gold. For a cap and bells our lives we pay, Bubbles we buy with a whole soul's tasking."

Wrong-doing is always costly to the person himself. He thinks he is taking a short-cut to happiness, but soon finds that he is well along on the road to ruin. So Jacob allowed himself to be persuaded by Rebecca that he could advance his own interests by deceiving his aged father and taking advantage of his older brother. He did indeed succeed in getting Isaac's first blessing, but at what a price! Soon he found himself a fugitive in a strange land separated by many miles from his mother, whom he never saw again. He had not bargained for this. But the devil always gets his due, with compound interest. The consequences of sin are not always so evident as in the case of Jacob, but they follow nevertheless with mathematical accuracy. We have God's word for it: "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. He that soweth on the flesh, shall of the spirit reap corruption; but he that soweth on the spirit, shall of the spirit reap eternal life."

Not only the sinner himself pays for his wrong-doing, but other people, many of them quite innocent, help to pay the cost. The reckless driver sins not only against himself by cutting his own life short, but he drags with him into the valley of suffering, grief and death, those who happen to be in his way. The fact that he did not want it so does not by one iota change the results of his wrong-doing. The cost of recklessness is terrific. Compared to it the cost of consideration for others is small indeed. What St. Paul says of the church is true in many ways of human society as a whole: "We are members one of another . . . and whether one member suffer, all the members suffer with it; or one member be honored, all the members rejoice with it."

But what is most disconcerting of all is the cost of man's sinfulness to God. This of all things may be farthest from a man's mind as he goes his thoughtless, self-indulgent way. He may not mean to injure his best Friend, the One to Whose love he owes his every breath, and heartbeat, but the fact remains that every time he stoops to do an evil deed, or even think an impure thought, God suffers untold pain. Christ on his cross is proof of that.

Before you do a contemplated wrong, consider well the cost to yourself, to your neighbors, and to God!

Let us pray: O God, keep our tongues from evil, and our lips from speaking guile. Help us to depart from evil, and do good: to seek peace, and pursue it. Amen.

India's delegation to the United Nations said Friday it will ask the United States to explain what India regards as three major differences between the U. N. Command proposal at Panmunjom and the plan approved by the U. N. Assembly last December.

Prime Minister Nehru of India has said the Indian plan closely resembles that offered by the Communists.

Harrison told Red negotiators Saturday that their proposal easily could result in the coercion of prisoners into returning to Communist-ruled homelands against their will.

North Korean Gen. Nam Il replied that the Communists never have been "advocating forcible repatriation."

The Indian proposal adopted by the U. N. Assembly would turn balking prisoners over to the United Nations if no agreement were reached within 30 days.

Communist negotiators hinted Saturday that they might possibly modify this particular phase of their proposal.

Confident Living How To Make Things Turn Out Right

—By Norman Vincent Peale—

Just before I was to make a speech in a certain city, a smartly uniformed chauffeur came up to me and told me that he had been sent by his employer to take me back to my hotel afterwards. The car was a brand new Cadillac, he explained, and he would be in it waiting for me at the end of the meeting. Of course I was happy to accept the courtesy.

After I had spoken I was talking to the people who came up to greet me when a man in the group, who had a quality about him which was both likable and forceful, but which I could not quite define, asked me, "Are you ready to leave?"

"I've come to take you back to your hotel," he told me. "You're going with me." His manner was polite and he seemed only to be stating a fact.

"Well," I hesitated, "there's another car waiting for me out there."

"That doesn't make any difference," he insisted. "You are to come with me and I hope you will."

There was nothing else I seemed to be able to do, so I followed him outside. The chauffeur was waiting with the glistening Cadillac and got out to open the door, but I told him I couldn't go with him, thanked him, and with my new escort got into a battered old Chevrolet just ahead. The chauffeur was a bit bewildered and the man with me noticed this.

"I was supposed to ride in that car," I explained.

"Oh," he said, "this car is just as good. I own it and I've got it all paid for. Six months ago, I didn't have money to pay for any car, however old and cheap. My wife wouldn't live in the same house with me; my children detested me. My employer kept telling me that if I didn't do better, he would have to let me go. I was a defeated man and everything went wrong for me. That was only six months ago."

"What happened so suddenly to make things turn out right," I asked with amazed interest.

"A friend helped me," was his answer. "This man told me something that changed everything. When I took my troubles to him, he said, 'Bill, the reason everything goes wrong for you is because you're wrong yourself.'"

"Well," he went on, "suddenly I realized that this was the truth. I was wrong myself; so everything about me went wrong. My friend then told me that, if I 'got right spiritually,' things would change and go right. He showed me how to pray and have faith, how to draw upon God's vast resources. Then he got me to reading the Bible, and one day I found a passage that struck me, 'I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven.' I asked my friend what that means and he told me that that is a way of saying that the Lord will open rich opportunities to a humble sincere person who really believes and practices God's way of life. I have been doing that and it's marvelous how things which once went wrong now turn out right," he concluded with enthusiasm.

Finally, we arrived at my hotel. The man jumped out, ran around, opened the door with more of a flourish than any chauffeur, gave me a warm and hearty handshake and said, "It's a great life, isn't it, when you get on God's beam?" I watched him jump back into his car and drive off in traffic and I knew that here was a man who had discovered one of the greatest secrets in the world: how to stop things from going wrong and start making go right.

This may sound materialistic, but it is not meant to be so. It is the application of the tremendous power of God in human experience to make living creative, not defeatist. You can apply it to make things turn out right for you. Have faith, apply what you know of spiritual laws, believe you can make things turn out right, and watch the results.

Wisconsin Using New Type X-ray In Crime Cases

MADISON, Wis. (UP) — A Wisconsin crime-buster is making history with a "soft ray" X-ray camera that detects evidences without destroying it.

Charles M. Wilson, director of the state crime laboratory here, was first to use the new type of ray to produce evidence in a criminal case.

Research scientists in the early 1940's made the X-ray discovery that made Wilson's later feats possible. The key to their success was a thin sheet of metal called beryllium, which they used as a window for the X-ray tube.

Beryllium, they found, allows soft rays to pass through the tube and show on film very small and thin objects that had never before been photographed.

The ordinary glass-window type X-ray allows only harsh rays to leave the tube, resulting in pictures of large, blunt materials.

Wilson, always eager to experiment in his laboratory, soon found that the beryllium X-ray would photograph such tiny—but revealing — objects as the lead filings sprayed from a discharged bullet.

He applied it to a criminal case for the first time in 1939 in the trial for murder of Milton Babich, 19, Milwaukee, who was accused of fatally shooting his wife's sister during an argument. Babich maintained she grabbed for the gun he held and was killed accidentally.

Wilson's X-ray photos of the jacket the youth had been wearing revealed tiny sprays of lead imbedded in the garment when the gun was fired. The state argued that these pictures, linked with other evidence, proved Babich fired the shot.

A jury convicted Babich of first degree murder, and two years later the state supreme court upheld the verdict.

Since then, Wilson has used beryllium X-rays successfully in other Wisconsin criminal trials. He says the Wisconsin laboratory is the only one using the X-ray adaptation for crime detection work, but feels its use will soon spread.

The youthful-looking crime expert claims the beryllium X-ray has many possibilities. He thinks, for example, the machine will detect ink-erasures by filming metallic specks left from the ink on paper.

Other uses include checking wheat grain for infestation, measuring the liquid level in sealed cans, checking contents of unopened packages, treating skin ailments, and proving the originality of paintings.

The standard, glass-window X-ray will, of course, continue to be used as before, mainly in medical circles. The beryllium X-ray is an adaptation for special purposes only.

Mississippi R.R. Takes Hitchhikers

AMORY, Miss. (UP)—J. C. Carlisle figures he isn't stretching the point when he tells people he runs the world's most unusual railroad. Not only is the 24-mile Mississippi Railway between here and Fulton one of the world's shortest, but also it is the only one which picks up hitchhikers.

Carlisle says there isn't another railway where the management is handed down from father to son and can be operated by the women of the family if necessary.

It's all written down in the charter for the Frisco Railway feeder line granted John T. Cochran of Mobile, Ala., in 1924. That document specifies that trains operating on the line always shall be run by Carlisle and his heirs and they must never fail to pick up anyone who wants to ride.

The reason for the hitchhiking clause is that residents of the area donated land for the right-of-way. In return Cochran guaranteed the farmers and their families free transit anytime, anywhere.

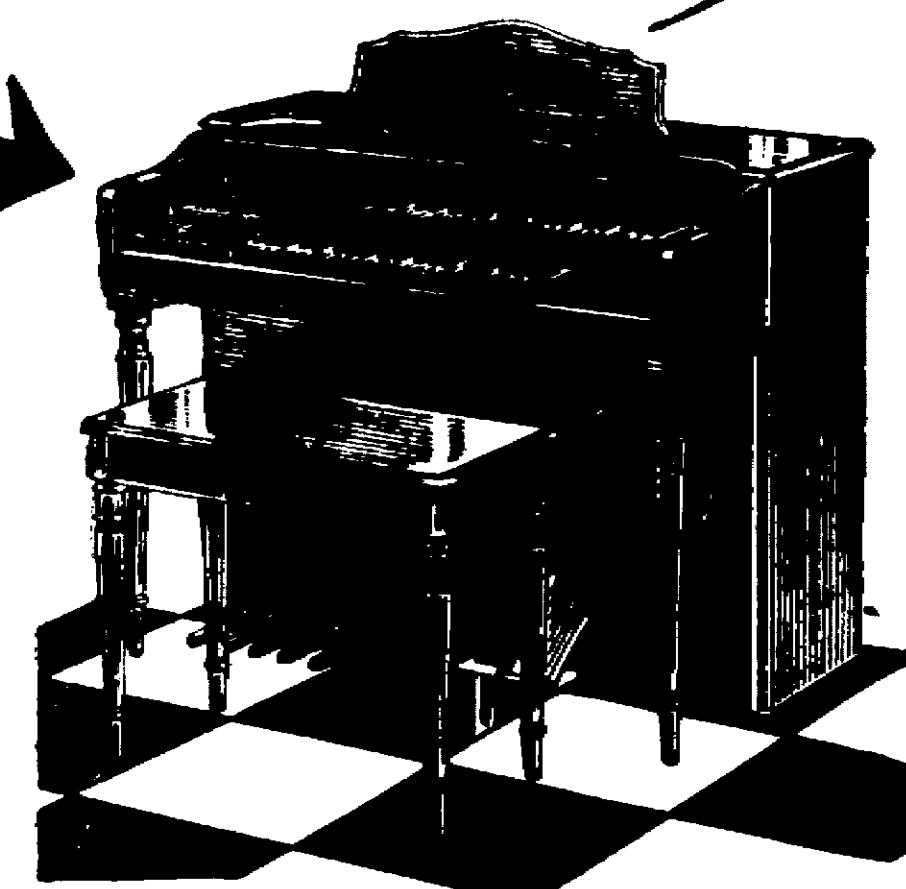

Carlisle used to take out most of the twice-daily runs, but he's getting feeble now and has turned over most of the work to his two sons, Frank and George, who alternate. Or when all three want a day off, Mrs. Carlisle takes over and thinks nothing of it.

The Green Border

John Crosby

In tackling the problem of the homeless displaced persons in Western Germany, the Columbia Broadcasting System is coming to the party a little later than it usually does. On some of its earlier documentaries, notably those on prisons and on New York's crime-ridden waterfront, CBS was well in the forefront of public agitation. The DPs have been pretty thoroughly hashed over, which doesn't mean they are not still a very grave social problem worthy of CBS attention; it's just that CBS is a little quicker on the draw usually.

Perhaps I'm over-sensitive but it seemed to me, too, that its documentary, "The Green Border," which was broadcast over CBS radio last week, was a little less hard-hitting than some of the earlier ones. Of course, prison reform and waterfront crime are hardly matters where disagreement is possible.

The problem of what to do with the hundreds of thousands of homeless, stateless individuals in western Germany is, on the other hand, shrouded in controversy.

MOST OF "The Green Border" concentrated on stating the problem rather than on advancing any suggestions for meeting it. Edward R. Murrow, the narrator, pulled the whole thing together with his usual admirable lucidity but, in general, stayed out of the way and let the DPs tell their own story in their own voices.

Bulk of the program consisted of interviews on the tape recorder, that splendid reporting instrument. The DPs told what drove them to escape, the dangerous routes that got them out, the rather dim hopes they held for the future. The voices and the manner of the telling were a bit of a shock. In speaking of their trials and their despair, there was not a hint of self-pity, scarcely a trace of any emotion at all.

Said an 18-year-old student: "The director of the school said I shall be a spy. I have said I am unable to do so—so I left the Russian zone." That's the 20th Century style—simple statment of intolerable fact without the embroidery of indignation.

Even while rejecting the horrors of life in Soviet Russia to the extent of running away from them at the risk of their lives, the victims eschew rancor as a waste of time.

"Salome" Will Open At Ohio Thursday

A three picture billing currently is playing through Monday at the Ohio Theater. They are "I'll Get You" starring George Raft and Sally Gray, "The Tall Texan" starring Lloyd Bridges, Lee J. Cobb, Marie Windsor and Luther Adler, and a short third-dimension film, "A Day in the Country."

The former deals with a case involving the sudden disappearance of renowned atomic scientists. "The Tall Texan" tells the story of five men and a woman searching for gold in dangerous Indian country.

Billed for Tuesday and Wednesday as a double feature are "Not Wanted" starring Sally Forrest, Keefe Brasselle and Leo Penn, and "Good Time Girl" starring Jean Kent, Dennis Price and Flora Robson.

Starting Thursday will be "Salome," presenting Rita Hayworth and Stewart Granger and co-starring Charles Laughton. Featured players are Judith Anderson and Sir Cedric Hardwicke.

The film brings to the screen the passion and pageantry of Galilee, 2,000 years ago, and is climaxed by Rita Hayworth's performance of the famous Dance of the Seven Veils.

Rita Hayworth is seen as Salome, the princess whose seductive beauty left her imprint on history, while Stewart Granger portrays the Roman commander Claudius, who falls in love with Salome. Armed Forces Day

There should be extra interest in Armed Forces Day this year.

For the first time in our long dependence on fellow Americans who stand in the front line of national defense, most of us are aware of the fighting man's sacrifice.

The war in Korea has caused us to understand what it is like to buy security at a premium price — the price the fighting man always has paid.

Here is a war as unglamorous, as grim and as hateful in its implications as all wars become sooner or later to the men who fight in them.

There has been a significant transformation of attitude since the series of wars which ended with World War I. Starting with World War II, we learned to think of war as a grim experience undertaken out of a sense of duty, not as a glorious adventure.

We learned to think of war as soldiers think of war — and it has given new significance to Armed Forces Day.

It is an occasion to understand why military power is imperative in a world still largely immune to sweet reasonableness. It is an occasion to learn more about the substance of military power in terms of weapons and men to use them.

Take an hour of your life this May 16 to comprehend more clearly how the armed forces of the United States are kept in readiness to save your whole life, if an enemy threatens it. The members of the armed forces have given years of their lives for that purpose.

British Bungling May Drag World Into New War

Knowing that nearly all elements in Great Britain have been opposed to American policies in the Far East, it was not surprising that the Communist negotiators in Korea rejected the latest plan submitted by the U.S. commander. If ever a negotiation was torpedoed without warning, it was the Panmunjom parleys of the last few days which have just been broken up by the speech of Clement Attlee in the British Parliament.

The Communist negotiators would have been foolish to go ahead with any agreements as long as it was apparent that, by holding out still further, they could take advantage of the discord and the disunity arising from the differences between the United States and Great Britain.

The story is a tragic one because evidently Prime Minister Churchill, who is experienced enough to know better, insisted on a foreign affairs debate in Parliament at a crucial moment in the Korean negotiations.

There were efforts made by the Washington government to dissuade him but to no avail. It was inevitable that any debate on the Far East would accentuate American - British differences.

Also, when a former prime minister is so indiscreet as to make a speech attacking America at the very moment when the Congress of the United States is being asked to shell out more and more billions for the aid of Europe, there must be something radically wrong with the political judgment of the leader of the British Socialist - Labor party.

Mr. Attlee will not get off the hook by attacking Sen. McCarthy any more than the Wisconsin senators fiery reply will bring an improvement in Anglo - American relations.

There is, of course, a school of thought which thinks it is much better to air all the differences now and get the public opinion of both Britain and the United States thoroughly familiar with the sources of friction than to allow ill feeling to smoulder indefinitely and cause the fires of dissension to burn on and on.

The truth is British newspapers in large part have been reporting from the United States for months a one-sided story of American attitudes toward the Far East.

The line taken has been that only a handful of Americans were interested in seeing the Commupresent administration that the Communist regime should be rewarded for her aggression by inviting the Red China government into the U.N. to take China's permanent seat in the Security Council, with its all-powerful veto.

The British people have been singularly unaware that the United States has had more than a million boys in the Far East and that nearly 135,000 casualties have been incurred on the theory that Britain stood with America wholeheartedly behind the U.N. resolution which ordered the aggression repelled in June 1950.

This principle of collective security based on Britain's support has been extolled in America. To see Britain, therefore, through Prime Minister Churchill as well as former Prime Minister Attlee, virtually repudiating the idealism of June 1950 with a willingness to accept a stalemate now on ignominious terms which leave Korea divided is as shocking as to see Mr. Attlee accusing some unidentified Americans of wanting an "all-out war" in the world because some Americans believe in using maximum power to win a victory on the battlefields of Korea.

The effort of Mr. Attlee to drive a wedge between President Eisenhower and his secretary of state by claiming that the latter's speech differed from the April 16 pronouncement by the chief executive is an attempt to create mischief — a task, unfortunately, to which some American writers still wedded to the Acheson concepts have also dedicated themselves.

Small wonder that latest Moscow dispatches say that the Russian newspapers are playing up Attlee's speech and commenting that "the speeches of rank and file members of the British Parliament — Conservatives as well as Laborites — proved a growing dissatisfaction in England with various aspects of American foreign policy."

Small wonder, too, that "Pravda" led its article with a quotation from Laborite John Hynd, who in his speech in Parliament criticized Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, American negotiator, for his "aggressive tone at the Korean negotiations."

Why wouldn't the Communists reject the proposals when some of Britain's spokesmen in Parliament have already publicly repudiated the American negotiators?

With such ineptitude, the world may wonder whether British bung-

Interior Budget Cuts Hard To Retain

By Raymond Moley

SAN FRANCISCO — There used to be a political maxim that the party that controlled the federal government could, by its control of vast public works, fairly well control the voting of Western states, especially those in which reclamation is a vital issue.

This, however, is more of a superstition than a reality, for the West gave Eisenhower thumping majorities, and most of the states west of the Rockies have elected strong anti-federal and economy-

About all that came in shape of an answer was that they were "investigating the agricultural phases of the projects in connection with general investigations." Whatever that is supposed to mean.

A congressman from Pennsylvania was considerably exercised over this and said that it seemed to him that after the farmers on the projects already had been helped by the subsidies for irrigation they should also not be told what to do when they got on the land.

secretary of the Interior.

Certainly, the Bureau of Reclamation has done very well in the past few years. In seven and a half years under Truman the Bureau spent approximately $1.7 billion.

In the 44 and a half years before, under Presidents Theodore Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson, Harding, Coolidge, Hoover, and Franklin Roosevelt, it spent approximately $1.25 billion.

Thus in reclamation the Truman regime was almost one and a half

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

But Not Today, Henry

(Personal papers in the newly opened Henry Ford Museum tell the complete story of how Ford, down to $233 the first year of business, got backers, and a few years later was able to pay millions for their shares. He was at first inclined to confine himself to racing his car instead of manufacturing it.—New item.)

January—Can't make up my mind whether to stick to racing or turn to manufacturing. Have been watching television. Lots of accidents but think a man can get hurt worse and oftener trying to run a business than trying to race a car.

February—Decides to go into business. Not easy to get backers under tax setup. Had half-dozen men pretty interested up to time I promised 25 per cent on their money.

March—Still trying to get investors to take a chance. One fellow seemed very enthusiastic until I predicted auto business might become one of biggest industries in world. He froze up at once and had me thrown out by a guard who said, "You can scare hell out of anybody these days with that kind of talk. Everybody knows that there won't be much left after taxes."

April—Friends say I would be smarter not to take any chance in business and just go to work in a plant owned by somebody who has made the mistake of going into business for himself. Think I'll see the RFC first.

May—Nothing doing at RFC. It lent all its money to Henry Kaiser. Am now advised to make right connections and will try to get an audience with some former Washington officials now in business as contact men.

June—Talked with bureau in charge of loans to small businesses. Forms and questionnaires required will take me so long to read that before I finish them the auto will have gone out of date.

July—Found a couple of big corporations which would like to back me. But top officials are afraid they and all their known relatives, from babies up, will be sued by government as conspirators if they do.

August—Pretty despondent. Wife has a good idea. Says only sure way to get cash today is to go on quiz programs. I tried "Break the Bank" and "Strike it Rich." Wife went on "Queen for a Day." Between us we got all the money required by telling what country Mississippi River is in and identifying the song "Yankee Doodle Came to Town."

September—Things look rosey now provided we don't do too much business and set any sales records.

President Eisenhower admits it probably won't be possible to cut taxes this year, which may explain Harry Truman's statement that he never felt better in his life.

Those Panmunjom truce sessions are a study in three-dimension snafu.

paper father.

No man can hope to be accorded any greater success than acknowledgment of difficult work well done. The newspaper properties which have been improved under the guidance of Emmett Dix and his family are a solid tribute to a man who was able to die in the privileged knowledge of his own success.

Mr. Dix was a past president of Ohio Newspaper Association and the Ohio Select List of Daily Newspapers, offices which testified to his high place in the esteem of his associate publishers.

Next-to-the-Last Obstacle

There could be an armistice in Korea today or tomorrow and there could have been one two years ago, if the aggressors had wanted to quit being aggressors, or the defenders had wanted to quit resisting aggression.

The prisoner-of-war issue, ostensibly the sticking point in negotiations, is only the next-to-the-last obstacle. The final and most important one is the impossibility of an armistice between aggressors determined not to give up and defenders determined not to knuckle under.

The real danger of an armistice which would leave the Koreans dissatisfied is the possibility that ROK troops might refuse to accept it. One condition which would be almost certain to leave them dissatisfied would be a partition of their country, leaving the northern part under control of Chinese Communists.

The prisoner-of-war issue is a talking point at this stage of the negotiations. The real issue is how to wind up the war in a manner acceptable to the Republic of Korea, the United Nations and the aggressor—the Communist conspiracy's Asiatic representative, Red China.

When that finally can be decided, the prisoner-of-war issue will vanish.

Go and Get It

This Ezra Taft Benson, the new secretary of agriculture, is the kind of public official who grows on you, even when you disagree with him.

He was the first of the Eisenhower cabinet members to make any news in his own right, when he said he thought agricultural subsidies should be for real emergencies. But even that kick in the teeth did not keep most farmers from believing they had a real friend in the Department of Agriculture.

Benson now has done it again. Speaking to the dairy industry (American Dairy Association) he has pointed out that it is making enemies through the butter subsidy and that he is dubious about federal milk-marketing regulations.

If anyone asked his advice, he told the industry's representatives, he would advise dairymen to bestir themselves with a more energetic advertising campaign to get rid of their products, instead of leaning on the federal government.

While farming is a hazardous occupation and farmers are entitled to some kind of security, as Benson sees it, they are responsible for solving their own problems.

Talk like that makes a consumer feel as if it would be no great sacrifice to buy an extra pound of cheese, or maybe even a little butter, if the proposition were advanced by the right industry; i.e., the industry that produces milk and cream.

ling, which led the world into World War I and which failed at Munich to perceive the folly of its own diplomacy and brought on World War II, may now be dragging the world involuntarily into World War III by failing to be decisive and at critical moments to adhere unequivocally to its pledges to its allies.

American policy of aiding Chiang Kai-shek's forces has for nearly three years now been approved by Congress, and there has been no idea in Washington either under the previous or the strong and real and economic minded governors.

However, there will be plenty of pressure from the West on the part of local communities to restore some of the cuts made two weeks ago by the House of Representatives in the Interior appropriations for the next fiscal year.

Those cuts were broad and deep. The Truman requests for the Bureau of Reclamation alone were, in round numbers, $231 million.

Cotton Corners

By TRUMAN TWILL

Dear Nephew: I have always wished you would take up gardening as part of your adult education.

It is guaranteed to point up the virtue of timing, patience and working in harmony with the eternal verities. I could wish we had more wisdom and less learning in this country.

But to get back to gardening, I claim it would be good for you. It has been good for me. It saves me a lot of time.

I do not plant parsnips because no one in our house likes parsnips, and I see no point in doing anything for the sake of doing it.

I do not monkey with eggplant because it is not worth monkeying with, unless you want to take a picture of it, and I am not a photographer.

My garden contains a wide and plentiful assortment of lettuce because it is easy to raise, rabbits love it, people love it, and neither the rabbits nor the people begrudge each other a fair share of the crop.

I do not raise watermelons, bread fruit, or truffles, because I am not situated properly and have no time to waste on failures.

I have learned better than to knock myself out in a losing battle with weeds, because all I can hope is to hold the weeds at bay, the same as an army which can't win and can't lose.

Moreover, I have learned not to get itchy and over-anxious about anything in connection with gardening, because trying to force nature is like pushing on a string.

It is this last bit of knowledge which causes me to be writing to you about the benefit of gardening. It teaches you not to rush the season. It also teaches you that when the time comes to get something done, nothing should be allowed to stand in your own way.

The mark of the amateur gardener is that he bustles forth on the first nice day and tries to do everything at once.

But the first nice day usually is followed by a number of days which either are so bad they undo all his work or suspend the results of his work. Since he is going to raise only one crop, unless he is a commercial gardener, it is better to wait until the last few days of May before doing anything. This does not cover such early crops as lettuce, peas, onions and radishes.

That is the important thing you learn with a hoe—to be patient until the right time comes. Once learned, the lesson is endlessly useful. It is the ultimate secret of war and peace—to cooperate with natural forces.

Washington took advantage of a snowstorm on a notable occasion. A Russian general named Kutusov licked Napoleon by letting the Mr. Big of the 19th century tangle with two things he couldn't mow down—time and weather.

Just ask your Uncle Wiggily about these things if you're in doubt. Your Aunt Wiggily is full of answers, too, if you can't get enough wrong ones from me.

Regards, as usual, to the family—and my sympathy to them for being cooped up with a man who doesn't garden.

Cotton Corners UNCLE GEORGE

CROSSTOWN

By Roland Coe

"Married eighteen years today. The least I can do is take the wife home a nice under-par score."

However, there will be plenty of pressure from the West on the part of local communities to restore some of the cuts made two weeks ago by the House of Representatives in the Interior appropriations for the next fiscal year.

Those cuts were broad and deep. The Truman requests for the Bureau of Reclamation alone were, in round numbers, $231 million.

Secretary McKay, in behalf of the administration, cut this to $177 million. The House Appropriations Committee slashed this to $133.

The House passed this with no great changes.

In line with this very substantial reduction, Secretary McKay has started to get rid of a large number of employees. It was announced last week that 1,322 economists, marketing specialists, and press agents would be dropped after June 30. In the words of W. S. Gilbert's immortal song, "They never will be missed."

In the long years of Ickes and his successors there accumulated in that bureau a choice assemblage of star-gazers, propagandists, and tricksters with figures.

It is easy to see why press agents were so much in demand. The head of the bureau himself was, until McKay took over, the former publicity man for Ickes.

Earlier this year, when the assistant commissioner of the bureau was before the House Appropriations subcommittee on the Interior Department, it was revealed that no less than 140 "economists" were on the payroll. The congressmen wanted to know what these people did.

The same congressmen were also at a loss as to why the federal government should have to pay for the schooling of the children in Boulder City when in his own district it was a responsibility of the local community.

These quite sensible expressions must have had their effect not only upon the House but upon the

Good Citizens Are Alert

By MARK DANA

For what the idea may be worth in contagion, it might be reminded that the City of Philadelphia has undertaken to convince the citizens of this Pennsylvania metropolis that the decades of political machinations there are ending. The municipal administration has arranged with the three local daily papers to publish a complete account of the municipal government set-up of that long-troubled city—its bureaus and sub-bureaus, their functions, their daily operations—plus a full accounting of where revenues come from and how they are expended.

It may be true in Philadelphia, as in many large cities, that 75 per cent of the residents take civic concerns lightly, perhaps, not even reading news stories on council and similar actions, taking no active part in their community movements bearing directly on city-wide matters, letting "George" do things. How many Philadelphians took the trouble to read the "popularized" full delineation of their own city administration could be an embarrassing query. The same situation extends on a Nation-wide scale.

As a matter of fact, daily newspapers over the land publish sufficient news accounts of activities of city, county, State and National government administrations to provide for every truly concerned citizen a comprehensive picture of how these governments operate. Pieced together, whether mentally or in a scrapbook, these day-by-day chronicles of various governmental phases themselves provide a comprehensive, balanced summary. Statements and speeches of officials, recommendations to or by legislative bodies, even formidable but significant statistical tables, are purposely educative and, to citizens who care, highly illuminating.

It is neither exaggeration nor chest-thumping by anybody to assert that the providers of governmental information to citizens are more zealous than the bulk of persons who should have such information. In isolated instances

If Churches Closed

NEW YORK (AP) — Suppose this Sunday every church in America were locked and the front door bore this sign:

"Going out of business. Building for sale or rent. The minister isn't mad at anybody. He simply has decided to enter a field offering more opportunity for advancement."

Well, you can imagine what would happen. There would be the greatest religious revival in the nation's history. You never love anything so much as when you are afraid you'll lose it.

At first everybody would simply be angry with the ministers.

"They must be crazy," people would say. "What's the matter with them anyway? They get paid for what they do."

The regular churchgoers would cluster restlessly around the locked doors, then go back home, restless and uneasy. The Sabbath golfers would shout indignantly at their wives: "The kids have to be able to go to Sunday School. It's good for them. I guess you'll have to read them something out of the Bible today, until we get this thing straightened out. There must be a Bible around here somewhere."

And, of course, the angriest of all would be the people who rarely or never attend their church, and don't even know the pastor's first name.

Then delegation after delegation would call at the homes of the ministers and say stormily:

"All right, if it's more money you want—how much?"

But if all the ministers still stayed away from their churches, the delegations would cease to bluster, and plead fearfully:

"You have to come back. You can't do this. Who is going to marry us, baptize our children, bury us when we are dead, and give hope to those we leave behind?"

And the ministers might answer: "We are weary of simply marrying you, baptizing your children, burying you and consoling your survivors. And it isn't a question of getting more take-home pay either. We will open the churches again only if you will promise to live up to your religion in your daily life—and then live up to that promise."

And when the churches did reopen their doors they would be as crowded as a real estate office in the Florida land boom. At least for a few Sundays.

By Hal Boyle

I suppose every minister had had a daydream of that kind at some time or other. And while I am not advocating a nationwide sitdown strike for ministers, it certainly would stir up a mighty interest in religion—and a little overdue appreciation for the parson.

A minister gives up a great deal for a mighty cause. In wartime a good chaplain is often as much of a hero as any frontline Doughboy. In peace he must show a finer, quieter bravery, with no medals to win and only the crying bugle in his own spirit to cheer him on.

His mere act of dedication places him apart, and makes him sometimes lonely. But like any other human being he is subject to discouragement and frustration. The time other men save for their family life he must always put at the disposal of his congregation.

Every minister wants to build one new church in his lifetime. But usually this is neither vanity nor the urge to spend money. If he has to build a bigger church, he knows he has succeeded—he has brought more people to the practice of their faith than were there when he first came.

This is his opportunity for advancement—his only real one. For this is his ultimate consolation, the proof that he has not failed in his dedication—he has led many to the worship of the lord he serves.

And like any other fisherman he yearns most for the ones that got away.

Offered for Sealed Bids

Site 66'x171', With 3-Story

Brick Building, Present Home,
Soon To Be Vacated, Of Marion

Y.M.C.A. 139 S. State St.

Sealed bids will be received until Wednesday, May 27, 1953, at 2 o'clock, P.M., at office of Secretary, 139 S. State St., Marion, O. Property will go to highest offer consistent with reasonable opinion of basic worth of valuable real estate and old but sound building.

CERTIFIED CHECK OF 5% WITH BIDS

Inasmuch as the new Y building is nearing completion and the proceeds obtainable from the present property is a necessary factor in the overall financing, it is the desire of the Directors of the Marion Y. M. C. A. that a prompt disposition of the asset be effected. Therefore, the idea of offering the old Y real estate for "Sealed Bids," through publicity over a wide area, seems an expedient way to reach a satisfactory conclusion.

Informed opinions have been optimistic of the investment merit of the old Y property, because of the relatively good location of the site of 66'x171', with a 16-foot alley side and rear, and the developing circumstances that favorably influence and affect it.

The three-story brick building, which is structurally sound, has a functional potential that is quite interesting; the total area of over 30,000 square feet suggests many practical plans that could be profitably utilized.

The spectacular, but substantial, progress of Marion in the past decade is of added significance to investors experienced in the essential elements that spell stability and enhancement in all realty investments. Groundwork has been laid for a strong, steady expansion of unpredictable scope, and high confidence in Marion's bright prospects is attested, in just one of many instances, by the proposed $2,000,000 Shopping Center about to be erected on the former Junior High School site on West Center Street, all units already having been leased, for long periods, to leading Chain Store organizations. The city's tremendous industrial growth the past few years is common knowledge. Now YOU have an exceptional opportunity to invest in Marion's promising future.

Although right is reserved to reject any and all bids, the Y Directors wish it to be understood that an acceptable figure is one that will be extremely attractive to prospective investors and not unfair to the interests of the institution.

Inspection and investigation invited. See Art. Haas, General Secretary, or the following members of the Real Estate Committee:

Oatis

the president of the republic has satisfied this request.

First, fragmentary word of the pardon came shortly before 7 p.m. EST Friday when Reuters News Agency intercepted a Communist broadcast. Almost two hours later the Saturday edition of Pravda became available in Moscow, and the AP Bureau there flashed its announcement. Just before 10 p.m. the State Department said it was advised by George Wadsworth, U. S. ambassador at Prague, of the pardon.

The State Department had made frequent appeals for Oatis to the Czech government, and Mrs. Oatis said she is "extremely grateful to those in the State Department and The Associated Press who have been so helpful and understanding during these trying months."

Frank J. Starzel, general manager of The AP, commented:

"Free people everywhere will rejoice when Bill Oatis is freed from incarceration. His crossing the border from Czechoslovakia will bring both the greatest relief and the fullest satisfaction to his associates and friends who have always felt that he was innocent of any wrongdoing."

Oatis' father, J. Ross Oatis, said at Phoenix, Ariz.:

"I only hope it is true." In Washington, Sen. Taft of Ohio, the Senate Republican leader commented:

"Every American will be delighted to hear of the pardon. I'd say this action is in accord with the stiffer policy adopted by Secretary of State Dulles and no doubt assisted by the Kremlin's peace propaganda."

Sen. Case (R-SD) expressed belief the action might be regarded as a step by the Communists to point that Oatis, in the actions which his Czech prosecutors described as spying, was merely seeking facts which fall within the category of ordinary, thorough reportorial activity in the United States.

Oatis' arrest led the two, or three other Western reporters then in Prague to withdraw, and there have been no U. S. newsmen since 1951 in the country that was founded with U. S. backing as an outpost of Democracy.

U. S. and Allied troops freed Czechoslovakia of its Nazi rulers at the close of World War II, but the Communists took over the country in 1948. Subsequently two AP correspondents were expelled. Oatis, then assigned as a reporter to the AP's London bureau, succeeded the second expelled correspondent in 1950. He undertook the assignment enthusiastically, and early in 1951 was looking forward to a time when Mrs. Oatis could join him in Prague.

Shortly before he was arrested April 23, 1951, by three Czech agents, Oatis told American officials he thought he was being followed. It was not until April 25 that the arrest was announced by the Czechoslovakia government.

He was held incommunicado for 69 days in Prague's grim Pankrac Prison and then tried by a five-man court. U. S. Embassy requests to see him or to provide him with counsel were turned down. No Western newsmen covered Oatis' two-day trial, but the U. S. Embassy observer was permitted to attend.

The U. S. State Department labelled the typical Communist hearing a "sham and a mockery of elemental justice."

Oatis admitted—in a feeble voice and as though he were reciting a memorized confession—that he had engaged in espionage. The public prosecutor charged he was "particularly dangerous because of his discretion and insistence on obtaining only accurate, correct, verified information."

This statement brought bitter protests in the West since it tended to confirm Oatis had been jailed simply for performing what would be a normal job of thorough news reporting in free countries.

It was American Independence Day, July 4, 1951, when the Prague court sentenced Oatis to 10 years in prison, with the provision he could cut five years off that by good behavior. Three Czech nationals who worked for the AP were tried with Oatis. They drew 16-20 year sentences.

Among the last stories Oatis covered in Prague were the banishment from that capital of the Roman Catholic Archbishop, Josef Beran, and the disappearance of Vlado Clementis, former foreign minister later hanged for espionage.

CORONATION GEMS. Mrs. Sara Lane, 69, cleaning woman at the British Industries Fair in London since 1915, tries on $280,000 worth of diamonds on show at the coronation edition of Britain's annual shop window.

Mrs. Oatis had written to Prague. "It shows the power a woman can wield," Vogeler said. "My wife was instrumental in getting my release. She wrote a letter to Hungarian Prime Minister Rakosi and fought in conjunction with newspapers to keep my case alive until sufficient pressure was brought to gain my release."

Mrs. Oatis said her letter to Prague was the only one she had sent to an Iron Curtain country. However, she made seven trips to Washington to confer with State Department officials.

She said she had received six letters from her husband, and the last, dated April 1, was cheerful. Oatis was born in Marion, Ind., started his reporting career there and joined the AP staff at Indianapolis in 1937. He went into the Army in 1942 and rejoined the AP in 1946. He met his wife when he was on the news agency's foreign desk in New York and she worked there in the reference library.

He is the only Western newsman ever jailed behind Europe's Iron Curtain.

May Be Red Display Of Peace Intent

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some members of Congress say the pardoning by Czechoslovakia of Associated Press Correspondent William Oatis may be a sign the Communists are beginning to back their peace talk with deeds.

An ex-newspaperman, Rep. Priest (D-Tenn.), declared, "I have a feeling that Bill Oatis, being a good reporter, will have a good many things to say that will be worth listening to."

Sen. Case (R-SD), said the action by Czechoslovakia's Communist government shows "a little more sensitivity" by the Reds to world opinion. He said it might be regarded as a step in the direction of backing up Russian peace talks with deeds.

President Eisenhower, who is aboard the presidential yacht Williamsburg on a trip to Williamsburg, Va., and Annapolis, Md., was not reached immediately for comment.

In Pittsburgh, Pa., Sen. Duff (R-Pa.) said he had written the State Department about three weeks ago that if the Russians "wanted to show some evidence of being civilized people they would release a purely political prisoner like Bill Oatis."

"I am tickled to death at the news," he added. Senate Republican Leader Taft of Ohio said "every American will be delighted to hear of the pardon." "That's wonderful," said Sen. Capehart, Republican of Indiana, Oatis' home state. "I'm glad for him and his family. His release was long overdue."

It is estimated that it will cost another 10 year's work and 15 million dollars to complete the restoration of colonial Williamsburg, Va.

 Oatis' arrest had been denounced by statesmen as well as the press in virtually all the areas of the world where free speech exists. Many organizations in the United States in the last two years took action urging the State Department to press for his release.

An indication of the esteem his fellow journalists hold for Oatis came a year ago when the Overseas Press Club of America named Oatis to receive its annual George Polk Memorial Award "for courage, integrity and enterprise above and beyond the call of duty."

age. U. S. officials were not permitted to see Oatis until a year after his arrest.

The U. S. government made a series of reprisal moves to obtain his release, first banning travel to Czechoslovakia for all American citizens. Later it canceled Czech trade and tariff agreements and introducing economic sanctions against the country. The U. S., Britain and France banned flights by Czechoslovak planes over Western Germany.

Robert A. Vogeler, an American businessman, was released from jail in neighboring Hungary just five days before Oatis' arrest. He also had been convicted of espionage, and he expressed belief Oatis was arrested in his stead in a kind of Kremlin plot against Western interests.

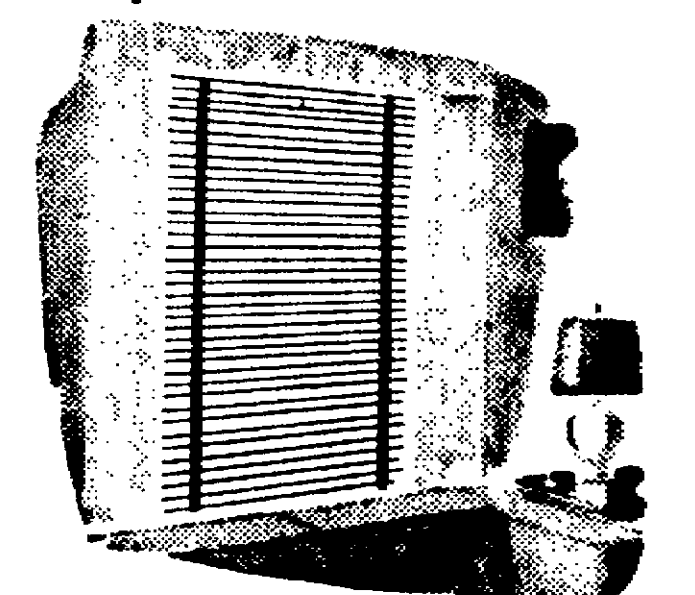

Vogeler served 14 months. Last night in Valdosta, Ga., where he was speaking, he extended "best wishes" to Oatis and expressed interest in disclosure of the letter

JUST CALL HER MISS RIP KIRBY. Yolande Betheze, "Miss America" of 1951, looks none the worse in New York following her cops-and-robbers experience with Pathe news editor John D. Levine (left). She was a passenger in Levine's car when it was commandeered by a policeman to give chase to two bandits who attempted to rob a haberdasher. One bandit was nabbed on the Queensboro bridge with Yolande and Levine leaping out to aid Patrolman Davidowsky.

Use Lag Screws To Splice Beam

With the present-day trend toward the development of basements for use as play or recreation rooms, it is frequently desirable to remove one or more of the columns which support the floor above. This is not a thing that can be simply done, without due regard to the safety of the house. It is a matter that requires careful thought. There are also times when a girder or beam develops a bad crack and shows signs of sagging. In either of these cases, solid job of splicing must be done for the sake of safety and a solid house.

The proper way to splice a beam is done by setting two-inch planks of the same width as the beam itself along each side as illustrated. These should be nailed up lightly, with the nailheads not quite fully driven in, so that you can proceed with the rest of the job.

The next step is to bore holes right through the planks and into the beam, and set in lag screws with iron washers under the heads. These should be staggered in triangular pattern at both ends as shown, and in the center. The screws set in the plank facing you should be offset from those in the back of the beam being spliced. After this, the nails can be drawn or sunk fully.

Most of the splices one sees are made with heavy nails or spikes, but these cannot compare with the rigidity secured with the lag screws. The only procedure nearly as solid and strong as a lag screw job is done by boring straight through all three members involved and driving bolts through to the other side in a driving (very-tight) fit.

While the above is the kind of a job that most grown men might well attempt with success, it is suggested that a builder or other competent person be consulted before it is started.

Wife of Ousted OSU Professor Quits Job

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Mrs. Byron T. Darling, whose husband was fired from the Ohio State University faculty for refusing to answer questions of a congressional investigating committee, has quit her job at the university.

Barbara Ann Darling said in an interview Friday she has resigned as a secretary in the OSU Romance languages department because, "I felt I should."

Her husband was dismissed last month after refusing to tell the House Un-American Activities Committee if he is or was a Communist. She has been subpoenaed to appear by a sub-committee scheduled to meet in Columbus next month.

Mrs. Darling said she would devote her time to helping her husband find a job.

Rotting Beam

Q: Water has run down and around the foundation of our large old frame house. We now find the plate beam just under the house is beginning to rot and the house is setting badly, as much as three inches at one end. Can this house be raised and leveled successfully and permanently, or will it always continue to give trouble after repair work has been done? Would you advise extensive remodeling of a house in this condition?

A: A competent builder could shore up the building and replace the rotted timbers. But in addition to this it will also be necessary to have a competent waterproofing contractor eliminate the water seepage problem. All of this of course, would be quite an undertaking, but when properly done the house should be serviceable for many years and remodeling would be advisable, if you so desire.

Unpainted Plaster in Kitchen

Q: One year ago we remodeled our kitchen having the walls and ceiling replastered. I had been told not to paint it at that time. Now I would like to paint the kitchen, but would like to know if I must wash it first. The ceiling above the gas stove looks sort of yellow which makes me suspect it is grease. If I must wash the surface please tell me what to use.

A: In order to obtain good results it will be necessary to wash the surfaces thoroughly to remove the accumulation of grease. You can do this with a solution of trisodium phosphate or washing soda in the proportions of a cupful in each gallon of water. After the surfaces have been cleaned, rinse thoroughly with clear water and allow the plaster to dry for a day or two. Finish with any good grade of gloss or semi-gloss enamel.

Hardened Paint on Shutters

Q: We are trying to refit and refinish some old shutters. They have several coats of paint on them, the newest of which, is about 20 years old. This paint has hardened so that it is almost impossible to scrape off. What can you suggest, not too expensive, that would soften the paint for easier removal?

A: You might try a paste made by mixing two parts Fullers earth or powdered whiting with one part trisodium phosphate. Add enough water to make a soft paste, then spread over the paint at least a half-inch thick. Allow to remain a half hour or so and scrape off the paste and paint with a putty knife. Rinsing with clear water should follow. Another method is to hold a heat lamp about 12 inches from the surface and when the paint becomes soft, scrape it off with a putty knife. An electric paint remover, which is not expensive, is also very effective.

Impound Scioto Conservancy District Taxes

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—A Common Pleas judge has impounded taxes collected by the Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District in Franklin County pending a decision in a law suit challenging the legality of the taxes.

Judge Ralph J. Bartlett impounded the tax money with the consent of attorneys for the district and the Sharon Realty Corp. of Columbus, which brought the suit. The taxes in Franklin County were estimated at $270,000, about 60 per cent of the total levied in the 17-county conservancy district. The realty company claims the taxes are unconstitutional, excessive and produce no benefit to the taxpayers. The tax is .3 mill on all real estate and .15 mill on property other than real estate owned by public utilities.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

WHEN A HOME HANDYMAN just gets going nicely it seems some debunker always comes along and says that the material or tool being used isn't the "real McCoy" after all. Take sandpaper, for instance—one of the most important tools in any handyman's kit. They say there's no such thing in the world as sandpaper. It never was made of sand at all, but of flint.

Well, that's all right with the man doing the work—painting a house, decorating woodwork, assembling and polishing knock-down furniture, or just keeping his workbench humming. Just so the sandpaper works.

The payoff, however, is that modern sandpaper, which isn't sandpaper at all—the technicians call it abrasive—works better than the old-fashioned sandpaper, which wasn't sandpaper either.

Like everything else in the world—except people and peace—sandpaper has been improved upon.

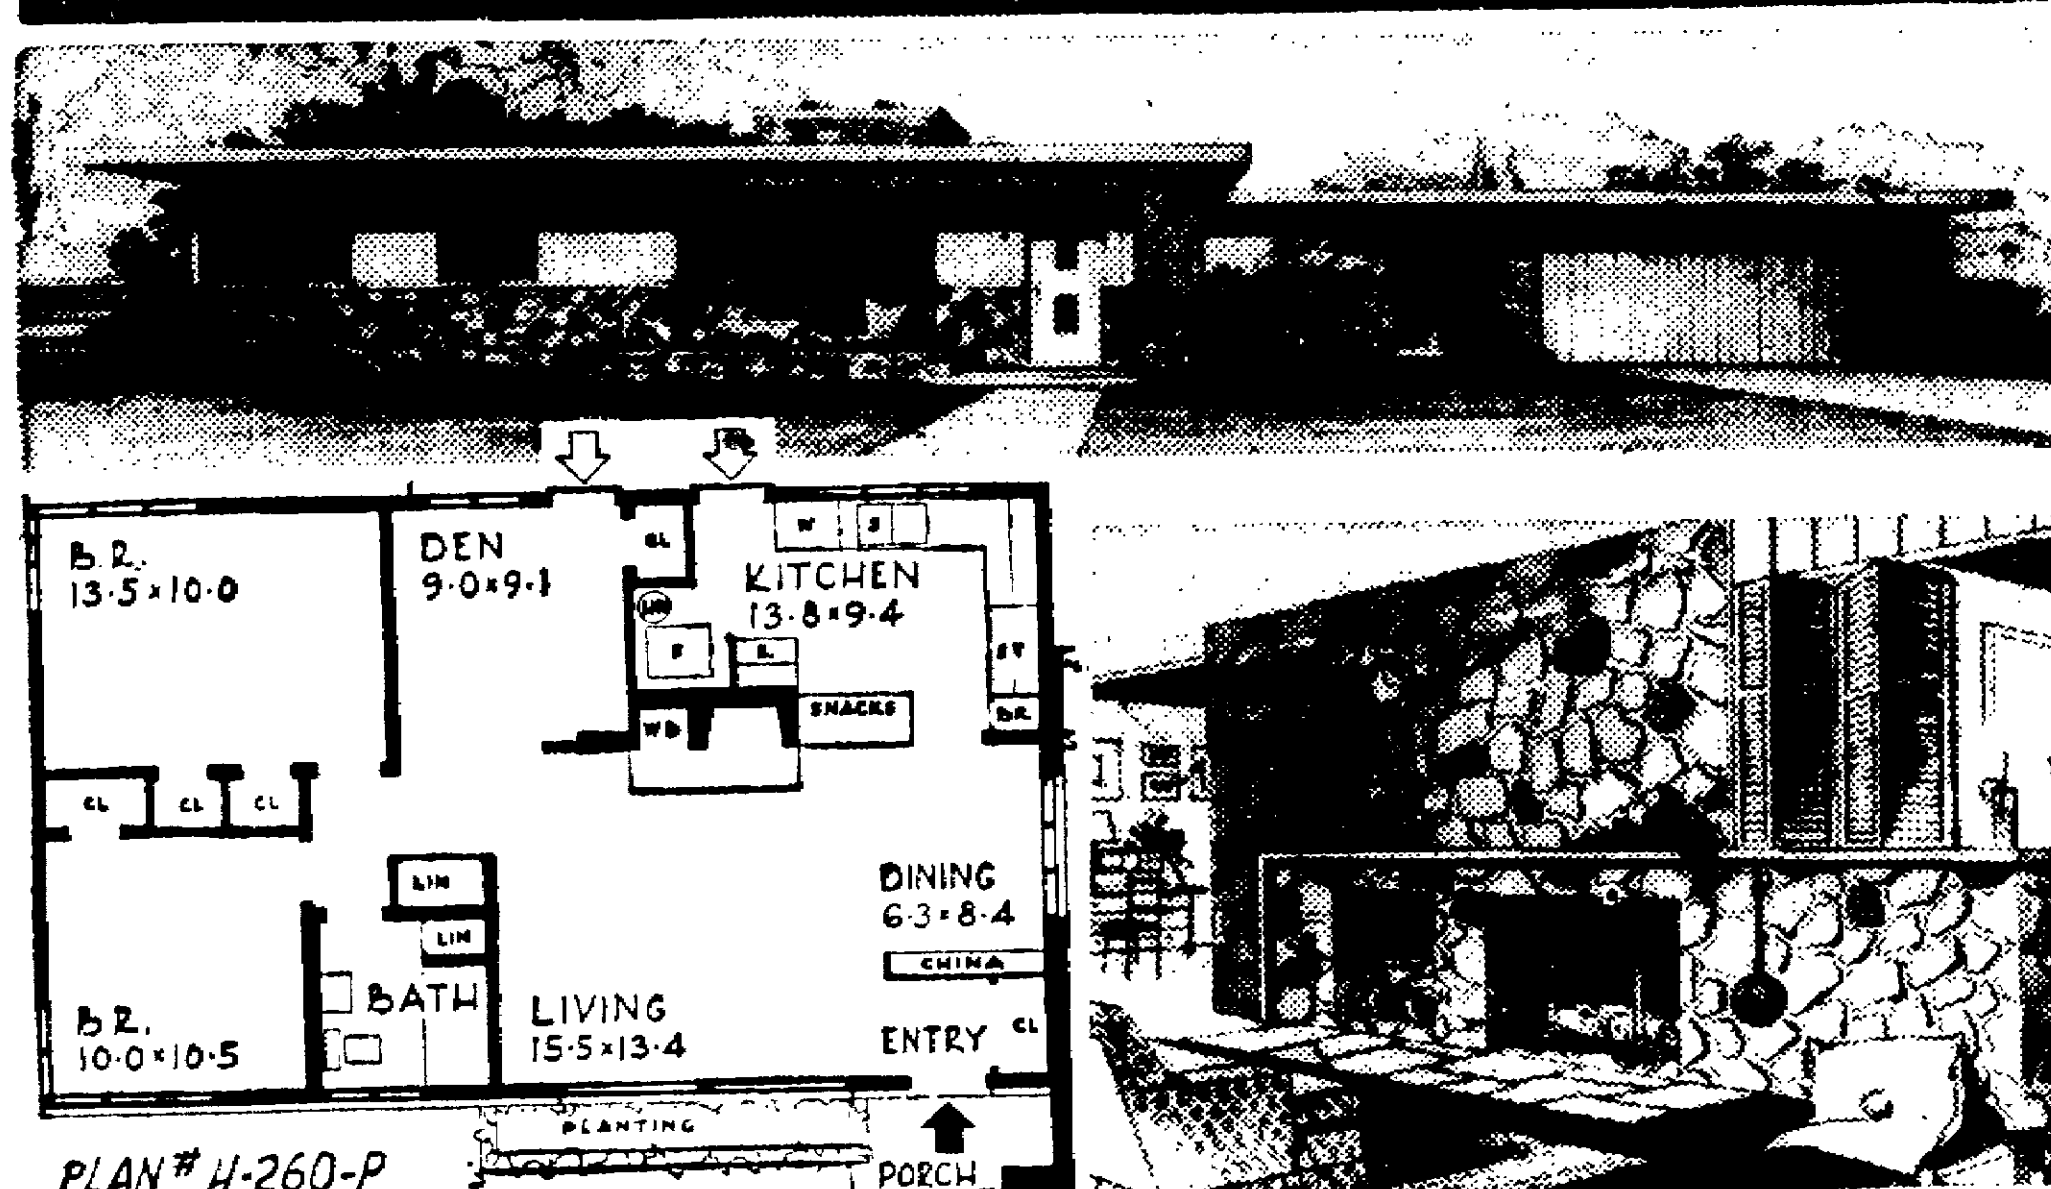

From the natural abrasives found ready-made, including standstone, flint, emery and garnet, the modern electric furnace has come up with new diamond-sharp crystals that cut cleaner and last longer with one-tenth the time and effort.

We used to be content rubbing down wood surfaces with flint sandpaper, while fine cabinet makers used garnet (emery cloth being reserved for metals), but today it seems the thing to use is aluminum oxide or silicon carbide.

Disappearing also are the old double-0, triple 0 and other below degree of fineness in the abrasive. The line found in hardware and paint stores nowadays more likely is labeled in plain English: very coarse, coarse, medium, fine, very fine, extra fine, and super fine. Presumably such superlatives mean more.

WHEN IT COMES to any home workshop job from removing heavy scale from a piece of metal to putting a piano finish on a cocktail table, these seven abrasive grades are supposed to fill the bill. Sanding is a simple operation in spite of its importance. The abrasive is rubbed with the grain, but the craftsman never depends on his own fingers or his hand to produce the flat surface desired—even when it is a curved surface. He uses a sanding block, solid and square for flat surfaces, resilient such as sponge rubber for contoured surfaces—concave picture frames, etc.

SLEEK AND MODERN, this compact house has three bedroom capacity by virtue of its convertible den with folding partition. Architectural detail sketch shows possible treatment of the living room's fireplace wall with adjoining snack bar opening into the kitchen. Two-car garage, entered from rear entrance, is not shown on this plan. The house covers only 981 square feet and contains 9,316 cubic feet. Heater room off kitchen eliminates basement. This is design H-260-P by the Homograf Co., 11711 E. Eight Mile Rd., East Detroit Mich.

Tacking a piece of sandpaper around a block of wood has long been an accepted custom. Today grades are supposed to fill the bill. you can buy at hardware or paint stores metal or rubber sanding blocks designed to hold the abrasive and take quick replacements. For finishing grooves and other tight places, wrap the sandpaper around a pencil, dowel or putty knife to fit the crevice.

A SECRET of the cutting surface of modern abrasive or "production" papers lies in the way end out. The charged crystals they are made. Aluminum oxide is bauxite clay fused in an electric furnace at about 3,000 degrees. Its crystals are tougher, though, of the grains having the same not as hard as silicon carbide, charge, they repel each other with which is made by fusing sand and an equalized force. This results in a uniform abrasive coating.

A fast cutting and durable abrasive is the closed coat type, but this is subject to clogging. The closed coat is a normal packed formation of granules, while the open coat comprises grains suspended on end with separations between them. The open coat abrasives are used where dust may tend to clog the cutting surface, although this type of coating is not as durable as the closed coat.

equipped with fine black water-proof paper is then used lightly.

An extra fine grade of this type paper is used to remove brush marks.

A comparatively little known and very useful abrasive is furniture rubbing compound. This is made of extremely fine abrasive dust mixed with oil. After it is used, the surface is cleaned and then finished with a coat of paste wax.

ON RADIO TONIGHT

SPECIAL WATERPROOF silicon carbide paper is made for wet sanding of special finishes. This is used to take such blemishes as cigarette burns or scratches off of varnished or lacquered surfaces. The wood is moistened with lubricating oil, or metal is wet with soapy water and the sanding block

Jersey Joe's Followers Screaming "We Wuz Robbed"

Short Count Controversy Raging After Speedy KO

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP)—The home of boxing's famed "long-count" today had a short-count controversy raging after heavyweight Champion Rocky Marciano's first-round knockout of slow-reacting Jersey Joe Walcott at the Chicago Stadium last night.

While the dynamite-punching Marciano, now unbeaten in 44 pro fights, faced a possible New York September match with Roland La Starza or Ezzard Charles, Walcott's howling handlers readied a formal protest of the manner in which Jersey Joe was tolled into apparent oblivion.

It appeared to many ring-side observers that a glassy-eyed Walcott "sat out" the 10-count of Referee Frank Sikora after he was knocked heels a-flying by a brutal Marciano right uppercut in 2:25 of a bewildering first round.

But the fans in the far-reaches of the stadium and along the TV circuit felt strongly that Walcott was caught short by a count that was misheard by himself and his corner.

The controversial finish was reminiscent, with reverse spin, of Referee Dave Barry's famed long count at Soldier Field in 1927 when Jack Dempsey failed to go to his corner after knocking down Heavyweight Champion Gene Tunney.

Scores of fans, many of whom paid the $50 top, streamed to ring-side to protest the knockout count and on TV, viewers—who saw only Walcott's back when the big punch came—wondered why Jersey Joe didn't make it to his feet in time.

But Jersey Joe, the 39-year-old Camden, N. J., father of six children, also told reporters that it was a "left-hook and a push-punch, or something" that floored him. He also said that he thought he had climbed to one knee at the count of three.

But he didn't climb to one knee. After he righted himself from a fall on his back with his heels flying high in the air, he sat up and draped his right hand on the ropes with no attempt to get up until the toll actually had reached 13. He had a vacant stare on his face and if, as he claims, he was looking at his corner for advice to climb to his feet, it didn't appear that way to many ring-siders.

the knockout after the ring had been cleared of Walcott's handlers, cops, ushers and an unidentified fan who got quickly rushed out of the ring. The first announcement was that the kayo came in 1:25.

Marciano's first title defense left him considerably short of the challenger on pay with approximately $166,000 for his 30 per cent of the $253,462 net gate and a $300,000 TV fee. Walcott's flat $250,000 was guaranteed by the sponsoring International Boxing Club. Marciano weighed 184½ and Walcott 197¾.

A paid crowd of 13,266 contributed a gross gate of $331,794, far short of the indoor record gate of $422,918 which the IBC confidently had predicted would be shattered in last night's rematch.

Out-of-Town Drivers To Test Speedway

An influx of out-of-town drivers is expected for Sunday night's stock car races at the Marion Speedway. At least 50 cars are expected to sign in for the races which get under way at 8:15. Time trials are scheduled at 7:30.

All drivers will be shooting to better the top time trial mark posted by Ray Walton of Wooster last week. He turned the ¾ mile track in 25.11 seconds . . . not a track record, but the best so far this season. Dude Grice, who held the record until last week, is second in the time trial figures.

All drivers will be attempting to join Grice and Ted Rambo as feature winners at the local track. Grice won opening night, besting Bill Krohmer, and Rambo . . . driving a borrowed car . . . won last week, edging Krohmer for the top spot. Dick Moffitt, Paul Hopper, Ray Walton, Krohmer, Jim Church and others are expected to present a strong challenge to the previous winners in the big 25-lap feature.

There is a strong possibility that Lou Nagy, one of Ohio's top drivers, will test the Marion Speedway Sunday. Most of the boys who showed up in 36 cars last week will be back, along with many others who race earlier in the day at Attica and Tiffin tracks.

Two Redleg Errors Give Giants Win

Thomson Belts 3-Run Homer In 11th Inning

CINCINNATI (AP)—There's one thing that can be said for Friday's game between Cincinnati and New York: The spectators saw a lot more action than the guy with the ringside seat did at the championship fight between Rocky Marciano and Jersey Joe Walcott.

A slim turnout of fans at Crosley Field was treated to a full 11 rounds in the first extra-inning baseball game here this season. The game ended in a 7-3 victory for the Giants as the Redlegs saw their two-game winning streak go glimmering.

Two Redleg errors in the eighth inning set the stage for two New York runs and deprived Howie Judson of a well-earned victory. Judson was yanked for a pinch-hitter and reliever Clyde King charged with the loss.

The Giants broke up the 3-all deadlock with a four-run outburst in the top of the 11th after two were out and two strikes on Davey Williams.

Williams drew a base on balls and scored on Alvin Dark's double to the scoreboard in left center. Dark took third on the throw to the plate. Hank Thompson then walked and Bobby Thomson followed through with a mighty drive over the leftfield wall.

The Redlegs had scored first with one run in the third on four straight singles by Judson, Bob Marquis, Bobby Adams and Gus Bell. Marquis hit a bases-empty homer to put them ahead, 2-0, in the fifth.

Monte Irvin's fifth homer in the sixth cut the Cincinnati lead to one and the Giants went ahead in the eighth, 3-2, as errors by Roy McMillan and Marquis blended with two hits for two New York tallies. Jim Greengrass opened the Redleg half with a walk and scored the tying run on Rocky Bridges' two-base hit.

Miller Death May Slow "500" Prelims

Veteran Driver Killed in Crash On Speedway Turn

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—A shroud of gloom, cast by the death of popular Chet Miller, hung over the Indianapolis Speedway today as qualification trials opened for the Memorial Day 500-mile auto race.

There was a possibility that the high-speed crash of the 50-year-old Miller into the southwest retaining wall Friday might reduce the pell-mell pace that had caused speedway veterans to predict a new qualifying record on the initial day of trials.

Miller, a soft-spoken veteran of 16 speedway classics who wrecked his own car in the 1939 race to avoid hitting another driver who had been thrown to the track, set the present qualifying mark of 139.034 miles an hour last year. He died in the cockpit of one of the two powerful V-8 Novi Specials, which have come to be regarded as jinx cars by speedway fans.

A dozen or more drivers were expected to make qualifying attempts today, and the pole position on race day will go to today's fastest driver.

Lead in NL at Stake As Phils Meet Milwaukee

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sports writer

The Philadelphia Phillies invade the wilds of Wisconsin for the first time today determined to find out whether the 1953 Braves are a myth or a miracle.

The two clubs open a three game set—one today, two tomorrow—in an exact tie for the National League lead. They've met only once before this season with Milwaukee taking a 5-2 decision in Philadelphia late last month.

Camp followers this spring dubbed the Braves the most improved team in the league. But they didn't see them as a full night, working for the St. Louis Browns, he gave up eight hits but still shut out the Senators, 4-0, ending Washington's six game winning streak. Detroit nipped Philadelphia, 7-6, for its seventh victory of the season. Chicago at New York and Cleveland at Boston in the American League were rained out.

The Braves edged Pittsburgh when Sid Gordon homered with a runner on base in the eighth inning. Philadelphia whipped the Cubs on a run in the ninth as Earl Torgeson doubled with one out and scored on a single by Granny Hamner.

Connected With Clean Uppercut, Says Marciano

CHICAGO (AP)—Fight quotes: Rocky Marciano—"I connected with a left hook and followed with a right uppercut. I think that right was better than the one I hit him with to win last September."

Jersey Joe Walcott—"It was ridiculous. I wasn't hurt at any time. I guess it was a left hook and a punch-push, or something, that knocked me down. I could have gotten up at the count of two."

Al Weill, Marciano's manager—

"The referee counted him out as plain as day. Rocky really doesn't know how hard he hit him. It was the best right uppercut he has thrown, I think."

Felix Bocchicchio, Walcott's manager—"We don't want to fight anymore if that's the way they do. Joe knew what he was doing. He waited for me to tell him to get up, and when I told him to get up, he was counted out. That referee wanted to count Joe out so bad, he counted 2-4-6-8."

Angelo Milandra, lawyer for Bocchicchio and Walcott—"We have made an official protest with the Illinois Athletic Commission."

Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club—"If Walcott protests to the state commission, I don't see where it will do him any good."

Mike Murphy, official timekeeper—"He (Walcott) just didn't get up at ten."

Johnny Behr, member of the Illinois Athletic Commission—"It was a clean knockout. I don't know of anything cleaner."

Livingston Osborne, chairman of the IAC—"As far as I am concerned, the fight is over. Marciano won fair and square with a knockout. If anybody wants to file a protest in any fight, we'll consider it."

Tucker Sets New Hurdle Record

BOWLING GREEN, O. (AP)—Lima Central and Clyde defend their championships in the final events of the Northwestern District high school track meet here today.

Lima, defending Class A champs, picked up only four points in the opening three events Friday. Jim Jackson placed fifth in the shot put. George Bailey placed fourth and Frank Robertson fifth in the broad jump.

Laverde Kuns of Clyde, defending Class B champs, won the broad jump with a leap of 20 feet, 8 inches. Ron Golembowski of Clyde placed fourth in the shot put.

Gibsonburg copped two third places — Bob Bowser in the shot put and Jim Lynn in the broad jump.

In the qualifying events the 120-yard high hurdle record of 15.15 set by Ed Nighswander of Fremont in Walcott's manager, Irate Felix Bocchicchio, said his lawyer, Angelo Malanda, would prepare a protest for the Illinois State Athletic Commission. However, the commission members today were in Milwaukee attending a National Boxing Association meeting and said such a protest could not be received until Monday.

Thus, Walcott joined seven other former heavyweights who failed to win back the title. He had the balm, however, of a $250,000 payoff—approximately $1,274 per second for his 145 seconds of surprisingly inept performing.

Jersey Joe, who had floored Marciano for the first time in his career in the first round of their hectic Philadelphia meeting last Sept. 23, let Rocky carry the fight from the outset last night.

Marciano waded right in, forced the attack, and Walcott merely tried to tie him up inside. Never once did Walcott cut loose with the steaming punches he threw at Marciano in Philadelphia from the opening bell.

Jersey Joe didn't seem to be in distress and the end came with amazing quickness as Marciano set him up with a left hook and then whistled the right uppercut which nailed the old boy flush on the chin.

All was confusion. Even the ring announcer gave the wrong time on

The first 20 drivers signing in Sunday will receive $10 tow money, to apply against their winnings.

British Writer Sets Mark for Traveling

CHICAGO (AP) — Of the many sportswriters who traveled hundreds of miles to see Friday night's brief heavyweight championship bout, Harold Mays journeyed farthest.

He traveled all the way from England for the two minutes and 25 seconds of action ending in the knockout of Jersey Joe Walcott by champion Rocky Marciano.

Mays, reporter for the Empire News of the Kemsley group of newspapers in Great Britain, also made the trip last month, before the fight was postponed from its original April 10 date.

Pitching — Robin Robertts, Philadelphia Phillies, shut out the Chicago Cubs, 1-0, for his fifth victory against two losses.
Batting — Sid Gordon, Milwaukee Braves, homered in the eighth inning with a runner on base to provide the margin of victory in Milwaukee's 4-3 triumph over Pittsburgh.

McClaskey Horse Wins in New York

Chief Elmwood, a five-year-old pacer, owned by W. E. McClaskey of near Marion, came home first in his race Friday night at Hamburg, N. Y.

He is the second McClaskey horse to cop top money since the meet opened earlier this week. High Style won the Class 22 pace on the Wednesday night card.

Chief Elmwood was driven by Al Washington of Pennsylvania. Herschel White of Marion trains the McClaskey horses.

Baumholtz Shakes Off Effects of Collision

CHICAGO (AP) — Frankie Baumholtz, right fielder for the Chicago Cubs, appears none the worse for his collision with a wall at Milwaukee a week ago.

Though the Cubs lost 1-0 to Philadelphia Friday, Baumholtz hit a triple and a double his first day back in the lineup.

Gonsalves, Demarco Clash in TV Feature

BOSTON (AP)—Johnny Gonsalves of Oakland, Calif., and rugged Paddy Demarco of Brooklyn, the second and third ranking lightweights, will clash in a return 10-round feature boxing bout tonight. It will be televised nationally (ABC), starting at 8 p. m. EST.

Demarco won the honors by a decision in their first meeting in San Francisco 18 months ago.

GRID COACH RESIGNS

YOUNGSTOWN, O. (AP)—James F. Forgrave will resign as assistant grid coach at Austintown Fitch High School to become head football coach at West Junior High in Warren. He is a native of Newark.

Seven members of last year's runner-up squad will be available to Manager Art Hindle when the team opens the campaign against Fulfillment Corporation. The returnees will be the team captain, Sally Murray, who probably will go to the mound in the opener, Dorothy Smiley, and, Helen Lynch, outfielders. Iona Hickson, at short-stop, Gladys Mairne, a pitcher, Dorothy Willis, last year's second baseman, who is scheduled to handle the catching chores, and Virginia Eby, who has shifted from catching to second base.

Hindle lists his other players as Mickey Carpenter, Doris Borders, Joan Zimmerman, Jean Anne Thompson, Phyllis Chard, Irene Fogle, Dorothy Knapp, Ava Mulvaine, Virginia Dane, Betty Miers, and Doris Huntley.

Hindle has set his sights on nothing less than a first place finish this season and is out to "take 'em over the coals. He is being assisted by Bennie Caldwell and Gene Stansberry in training the team. The manager and coach report several of the team members can "power the ball a mile."

they didn't see them as a real fledgling title contender.
The Phillies figured to be real tough, and they have been. With a Big Two pitching staff of Robin Roberts and Curt Simmons plus the part time help of Karl Drews and Jim Konstanty, the Phils have won 15 of 22 games.

Roberts won his fifth one yesterday, an excellent 1-0 effort against the Chicago Cubs. He's lost twice. Simmons, who goes today, has won five while losing only one. Drews is 2-2 and Konstanty 3-1.

The Braves have a five game winner, too, but the Phillies probably won't get a look at him this time around. He's Max Surkont, a chunky righthander who hung up No. 5 yesterday, 4-3, over Pittsburgh. Max hasn't been beaten.

Charlie Grimm has nominated Don Liddle, a fresh new rookie who has started only one major league game—he won a two hitter against the Cubs last Sunday—to open the series for Milwaukee.

Milwaukee is riding a six game winning streak starting with a doubleheader against the Cubs last Sunday.

The Phillies and Braves pulled two games ahead of their nearest pursuers yesterday as the St. Louis Cardinals handed third place Brooklyn its third straight loss, 9-3. The Giants defeated Cincinnati, 7-3, in 11 innings in the other National League game.

A year ago yesterday Virgil Trucks, then with Detroit, beat Washington with a no-hitter. Last St. Louis routed Preacher Roe, who had beaten the Cards 10 times running, after two innings. The Preacher was blasted for six runs in the second. The Giants rallied with two down in the 11th to score one run, then added three more as Bobby Thomson hit one out of the park with two runners on base. Hoyt Wilhelm, making his 16th relief appearance out of 25 games, gained the victory, his third against one loss.

Dick Kryhoski got Trucks away to a good start in Washington, homering over the right field fence in the first inning with Vic Wertz on base. Art Houtteman of Detroit hit his first major league home run and won his first game of the season against the Athletics. His blow was the last of three Detroit homers, each coming with a man on base. Walt Dropo and Matt Batts contributed the others.

Marion Soldier Leads Class In Engineer School

Sgt. Paul D. Copeland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Copeland of 295 Blaine Ave., recently graduated with high honors from the U. S. Army Engineer School in Murnau, Germany.

Copeland, who arrived overseas last November, is a foreman in the 998th Engineer Construction Battalion, stationed in Metz, France.

A former employee of Pollak Steel Co., he entered the Army in October of 1948 and received basic training at Ft. Knox, Ky. He was graduated from Harding High School.

His wife, Anna, a German girl, and two children, a boy and girl, reside in Weiden, Germany, with her mother.

Sgt. Copeland received training in the construction and repair of military structures such as bridges, barracks, warehouses, wharves, roads and airfields built by the Corps of Engineers at the school.

Neglected Bean Pot Panics Neighborhood

The Daniel Blevins family, 1055 W. Center St. was minus one pot of beans Friday.

City firemen from the W. Center St. and Central stations were summoned to the address by worried neighbors who had noticed smoke rolling from the Blevins residence. By the time firemen arrived at the scene, at 1:53 p.m., a smoking kettle had been removed from the Blevins kitchen and carried out into the yard.

Apparently the pot of beans setting on the kitchen stove had been forgotten by the Blevins family who were not at home at the time, and the pot boiled dry.

Damage, firemen said, was confined to the aluminum kettle . . . and the beans, of course.

Cardington Youth Scheduled To Graduate at Annapolis

A Cardington man, Midshipman First Class Kent W. Curl, 22, is included in a class of 926 scheduled to graduate and receive the bachelor of science degree at the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., June 5.

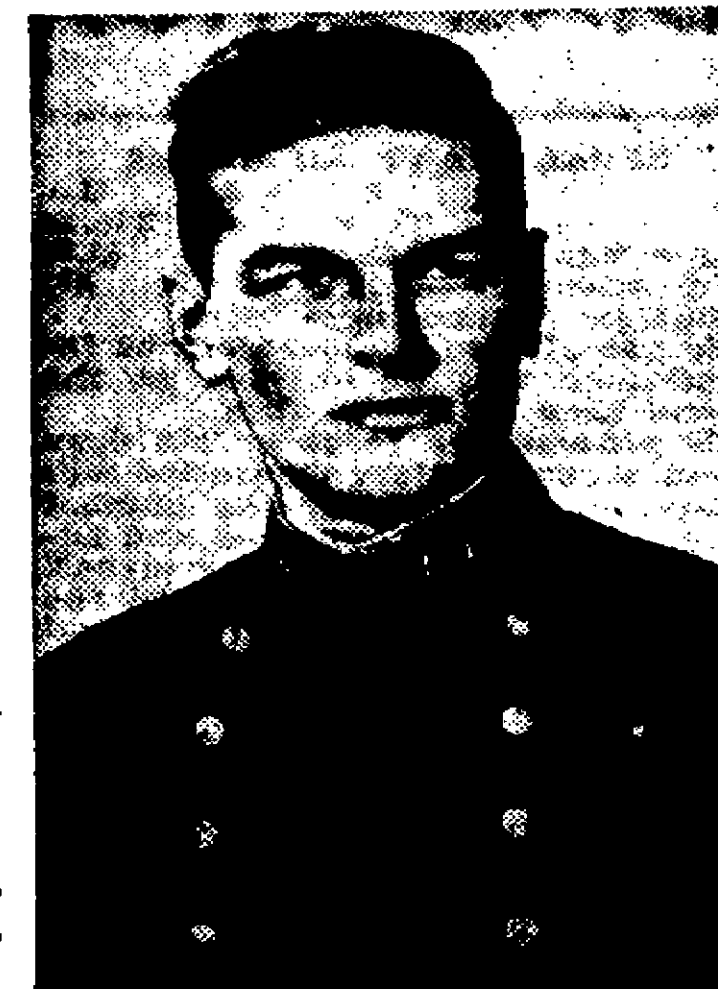

Curl, son of Mrs. H. H. Curl, who operates the Curl Funeral Home in Cardington, is scheduled to be commissioned an ensign, USN. He ranks in the upper five-per-cent of his class.

He entered the Naval Academy in July of 1949. He was appointed by former congressman Frederick C. Smith of Marion.

This year's graduating class is the second largest since the Naval Academy's founding 108 years ago in June. Largest class was in 1946 with 1,046 members.

During his first class year at the Naval Academy he attained the rank of midshipman lieutenant commander, serving as battalion commander during the winter term and regional operations officer during the spring term.

Curl was graduated from Cardington High School in 1948 where he lettered in baseball and basketball all four years and in football during his senior year, when the school first started the sport. He was an honor student at Cardington and was salutatorian of his class. He was editor of the school annual in his senior year, served on the student council, was a member of the school band and was in the school's junior and senior class plays.

He later attended Otterbein College at Westerville for a year before going to the Naval Academy.

Two brothers attend Cardington High School. Franklin graduates this year and Dean is a sophomore. Both are active in athletics and music at the school.

LEGAL NOTICE

In the matter of the Claridon Heights Addition Ditch No. 431, petitioned for by Arthur H. Larson, et al.,

To each person signing or named in the petition and to each other person affected by said improvement.

You and each of you are hereby notified that on the 7th day of May 1953, the above named petitioner filed a petition with the County Auditor of Marion County, Ohio, for the location, construction, reconstruction, deepening, widening and tiled of a combination sewer in Claridon Heights and adjacent land.

The construction of the improvement is necessary and will be conducive to the public welfare.

The following is the course and terminal of said proposed improvement, to-wit: Commencing in the main sewer on the east side of Kensington Avenue and continuing west to the North Road ditch of Linwood Drive and to continue west under said north road ditch to Merchant Avenue; thence west and south to the north side of Mount Vernon Avenue to the Quakka County Tile Ditch and there terminate. Laterals branches to be installed in the rear of lots and between all streets and to extend far enough to give all interested property owners an outlet into said main sewer. The proposed sewer is located in the north half of Section 26 Marion Township. The County Engineer to determine the gradient and sizes of sewers to provide an ample outlet for this territory.

It is claimed that the improvement will affect property owned by you.

You are therefore notified that the Board of Commissioners of Marion County, Ohio, have fixed the 2nd day of June 1953, at ten o'clock A.M., at the upper terminus of the improvement for the view thereon, and have fixed the 11th day of June 1953, at ten o'clock A.M., at the office of the County Commissioners in Marion, Ohio, for the first hearing on the proposed improvement.
